COMMUNITY OPEN HOUSE!

Tacoma Old City Hall Historic District Design Guidelines

Last spring, the City of Tacoma began a project to write design guidelines for Tacoma's Old City Hall Historic District. The focus of the project is to establish clear, concise guidelines for the appropriate treatment of historic buildings, historic infrastructure and open spaces, and to guide appropriate new development in the district. Information about how to plan a preservation project and the appropriate design of a variety of sign types is also included.

The design guidelines document will be presented at an open house on January 10, 2019. A short presentation to explain the purpose and content of the document will be given, followed by discussion and open house format to review the design guidelines content in more detail. There will be an opportunity to ask questions and provide feedback on the guidelines during the open house. The document is available for review prior to the open house via the city's website, at the web address provided below. If you are unable to attend the open house but would like to provide feedback on the guidelines, feel free to stop by the main floor Union Club conference room on January 10th between 1pm and 4pm to speak with the consultant. You may also email your comments or questions to Reuben McKnight at the email address listed at the bottom of this page by January 10.
